Dear Greater New York Area Daily Money Managers (whether members of the chapter or not):

This is a reminder that early Regional Conference registration, at the lower cost, ends on December 15th. There was great buzz at the national conference about our regional conference, and a number of people will be attending from out of town. The limit to attendees is 60 people, so there are two reasons to send your application and check in as quickly as possible, cost savings and assured reserved space.

Also, for those of you who are PDMMs, National has determined that you will get 1.5 CEUs (Payroll, Finance, Bookkeeping and Bill Paying) for the Protecting Client Information seminar.

This is your opportunity to meet face-to-face the people you have been talking to in teleconferences for the last few years.

Besides opportunities to network, be educated, and obtain credits, two other goals of the Regional Conference on January 22nd are:

1. to reach out to others who are performing services as paid daily money managers, but do not know about AADMM and how it can support their work, and
2. to educate the public in general about AADMM so people will know that DMM services are available

We will all benefit from spreading the word about AADMM and Daily Money Management. Three documents (an invitation/application, an application alone and a conference description) are attached for you to choose from when emailing your networking groups and people you know who might benefit from knowing about the conference, or be able to communicate to others about AADMM and DMMs. I encourage you to help spread the word. Do not hesitate to contact me if you have suggestions about other ways that we can use the conference to further the above goals.

There are so many reasons to attend, so send in your application now.

I look forward to seeing you on January 22nd.
